LEARNING OUTCOMES:

University Studies at the College of the Rockies allow students to complete their first two years of study towards a university degree. College students gain academic knowledge and skills in their chosen subjects. They also cover general problem-solving and critical thinking skills. The combination can empower them to participate as educated citizens in the economic, political and cultural life of their communities.

Upon the successful completion of this course, students should be able to

Reading:

- develop critical thinking skills at an advanced level by considering complex texts and by comparing their content and structure;
- perform university-level critical analysis of texts by identifying and evaluating the thesis, rhetorical strategies, evidence, tone, style and context;
- analyze argument as a rhetorical mode; and
- discuss and debate texts using discipline-specific terminology.

Writing Process:

- develop a unique writing voice;
- engage in written academic debates about current social issues using evidence to support views as well as citing and refuting opposing views;
- bring to the writing process a conscious consideration of structure;
- develop an awareness of audience and bring to the writing task an array of appropriate stylistic alternatives;
- use a mature writing process which involves prewriting, planning, multiple drafting, conferring (peer editing), revising and editing/proofreading with a focus on effective rhetorical strategies; and
- develop a critical response to complex texts, expressed in modes appropriate to both academic writing and non-academic writing.
Oral:
• develop the ability to convey an argument effectively in a solo oral presentation and in a group setting.

Style:
• vary style purposefully through manipulating sentence rhythms, sentence variety and structure and figurative language; and
• manipulate style to suit function and audience.

Research:
• find and evaluate source material which may include personal knowledge and interview, print and electronic media;
• synthesize and analyze source material to support a position;
• integrate source material (including quotations, paraphrases and summaries) effectively, providing suitable authority and context; and
• document sources fully and ethically according to MLA guidelines.

COURSE TOPICS:
• Understanding Author, Audience, and Ideology
• Strategies of Argumentation
• The Rhetorical Appeals
• Visual Rhetoric
• Imitation and Parody

See instructor’s syllabus for the detailed outline of weekly readings, activities, and assignments.

Please see the instructor’s syllabus for specific classroom policies related to this course, such as details of evaluation, penalties for late assignments, and use of electronic aids.
EXAM POLICY:

Students must attend all required scheduled exams that make up a final grade at the appointed time and place.

Individual instructors may accommodate for illness or personal crisis. Additional accommodation will not be made unless a written request is sent to and approved by the appropriate Department Head prior to the scheduled exam.

Any student who misses a scheduled exam without approval will be given a grade of “0” for the exam.

COURSE GRADE:

Course grades are assigned as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>A+</th>
<th>A</th>
<th>A-</th>
<th>B+</th>
<th>B</th>
<th>B-</th>
<th>C+</th>
<th>C</th>
<th>C-</th>
